

re:thinking tomorrow

VISION

CRISIS

GOVERNANCE

REFORMS

Germany: Making or Breaking Europe?

What began as a crisis for the euro has quickly turned into a crisis for the European Union, prompting a series of broader strategic questions: “what is Europe, where is it heading, and who leads it?” Germany has thus far taken the lead in bankrolling and negotiating Europe’s bailout funds, but will Berlin play a similar role in tackling tough political reforms as the balance of power in Europe continues to shift?

Deutsche Welle and the Hertie School of Governance, in cooperation with Carnegie Europe, will assemble a high-level team to explore the key factors shaping German national politics, and Europe’s future.

re:thinking tomorrow is a discussion series hosted by Deutsche Welle and the Hertie School of Governance.

INVITATION

Tuesday, 27 March 2012 | 6:30 pm

North Rhine-Westphalia Representative Office to the European Union
47, Rue Montoyer | 1000 Brussels, Belgium

DISCUSSION

Prof. Dr. Kurt Biedenkopf, Former Minister President of Saxony, Honorary Chairman, Hertie School of Governance
Prof. Dr. Henrik Enderlein, Hertie School of Governance
Sylvie Goulard, Member of the European Parliament
John Kornblum, Former US Ambassador to Germany
Quentin Peel, Associative Editor and Chief Correspondent, Financial Times

MODERATION

Terry Martin, Deutsche Welle

The event will be followed by a cocktail reception.

REGISTRATION

If you wish to attend please register by 22 March 2012.

Carnegie Europe
Christine Lynch
15, Rue de Congrès
1000 Brussels, Belgium

T +32.2.2092993
F +32.2.7366222
brussels@ceip.org
www.carnegieeurope.eu

Hertie School of Governance
www.hertie-school.org