

WE'RE NOT THAT CARNEGIE...

[But we do have a taste for meaty issues.]

*We're the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. In our role as a non-partisan policy institute, we bite off
some pretty substantial issues.*

From globalization and free trade to nuclear non-proliferation, the environment, and the war against terror, it's our goal to make tomorrow's world a better place... by shaping the policy debate today.

In Russia, China, and throughout the world, our independent research projects build consensus, shape decisions, and influence outcomes among key global players. In the pages of our award-winning magazine, FOREIGN POLICY, we provide a forum for some of the most innovative thinking of our age.

To be a part of that debate, visit our website and explore in detail the issues that are driving global change. Read articles and briefs, backed up by probing analysis and presented in clear, jargon-free writing, before they make news. Tune in to online events, and receive regular policy updates via our free e-news subscription service.

Before it's news, it's policy.

CARNEGIE ENDOWMENT
for International Peace

www.ceip.org